MASON CITY — Cerro Gordo County Community Foundation will join more than 130 community foundations/affiliate community foundations across Iowa in celebrating charitable giving during Community Foundation Week, Nov. 12-18.

Iowa Community Foundations are nonprofit organizations established to meet the current and future needs in communities including those related to arts/culture, education, health, human services, environmental protection, community development and more.

Locally, since its inception in 2006, Cerro Gordo County Community Foundation has awarded more than $250,000 impacting over 125 project organizations such as senior citizen centers, fire and emergency management departments, Habitat for Humanity, Newman Catholic School, Mason City Family YMCA and Clear Lake Historical Society.
